Developing nations wrongly blamed for emissions: Modi

PM says India's per capita carbon emissions are less than the global average; claims the country fulfilled all the commitments made at 2015 Paris climate summit; flags hurdles to nuclear energy

Jacob Koshy
NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday said the responsibility for carbon emissions had often been “wrongly placed” on developing countries. He also claimed that India was the only G-20 country to have fulfilled all the commitments it made at the 2015 Paris climate summit, and that it had done so ahead of schedule.

Mr. Modi was speaking at the inauguration of a two-day international conference on “The Future of Environment and Climate Dynamics”, organised by the National Green Tribunal (NGT) at Vigyan Bhavan. The conference brings together jurists, academics, policymakers, scientists, and experts from 17 countries, along with the United Nations Environment Programme and the Asian Development Bank. The NGT said the aim was to identify gaps in policy-making and implementation, and strengthen cooperation among institutions.

Big statement: Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Justice of India Surya Kant at the NGT conference in New Delhi. PTI

“We all know that often the responsibility for carbon emissions has been wrongly placed on developing countries. Many of my companions from the Global South are present here,” Mr. Modi said. “But the historical truth is that even today, India's per capita carbon emissions are less than half the global average,” he added.

ita carbon emissions are less than half the global average,” he added.

India's growth

The per capita emissions in developed countries were six times India's, he noted and said solar capacity had grown from about 2 GW to more than 160 GW in 12 years and that non-fossil capacity had nearly quadrupled.

“Those who give long speeches on the environment – when I advance nuclear energy work, they will stand in the courts to stop it,” he added, “A pathway has also been created to bring private players into this sector.” The SHANTI Act from December 2025 enables this.

Over 22 lakh Bengal voters filed appeals against exclusion: EC

Krishnadas Rajagopal
NEW DELHI

A second affidavit filed by the Election Commission (EC) in the Supreme Court has revealed that over 22 lakh voters purged from the electoral roll during the special intensive revision exercise in West Bengal have filed appeals challenging their exclusion.

The number of voters challenging the deletion of their names from the electoral roll is significant as approximately 27 lakh voters were excluded on the ground of “logical discrepancies”.

This would mean that a lion's share of the 27 lakh voters may be contesting their exclusion before 19 Appellate Tribunals constituted on the orders of the Supreme Court over six months ago.

The EC's figure of 22,21,118 appeals by excluded voters is striking, particularly given that judicial officers, actively de-played during the SIR verification phase, have already adjudicated these claims and objections.

This is the first time a break-up of the number of appeals concerning both exclusions and inclusions have been given.

The EC's affidavit said that 16.10 lakh appeals had been filed against inclusion. A total of 38.31 lakh appeals were filed in the tribunals, the poll body said.

As of September, the 19 tribunals have decided 1,26,194 appeals. Another affidavit had pegged the disposal rate as 1,02,231. The latter would probably be the disposal statistic till the month of August.

The number of pending appeals currently before the tribunals exceeds 37.05 lakh. The affidavit filed in response to a petition filed by Rajya Sabha MP and Trinamool Congress leader Derek O' Brien conveyed the EC's agreeability to an increase in the number of tribunals.

Detained on suspicion of being Bangladeshi, 19 W.B. workers released from Chhattisgarh

Senjuti Sengupta
KOLKATA

A civil court in Chhattisgarh's Raipur district has ordered the release of 19 of the 23 migrant workers from West Bengal who were detained by the police on suspicion of being Bangladeshi nationals.

According to family members, the workers are natives of the Samserganj and Sahabad areas in West Bengal's Murshidabad district. They had gone to Chhattisgarh in search of work, where they had also been selling goods door to door in the Bilaspur area.

A non-profit organisation working with migrant workers filed a petition seeking their release, following which the court ordered the release of 19 of them on Friday. The other four remain in police detention.

The workers had been selling goods door to door in the Bilaspur area. SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

On September 4, the Chhattisgarh police detained at least 23 of them from their houses in Chun-chiapara-Ganesh Nagar in Bilaspur district as part of a verification drive against illegal immigrants, especially Bangladeshi nationals.

The police maintained that the workers had been summoned to the Sirgiti police station multiple times for document verification, but did not appear.

“They were initially taken to the Bilaspur Superintendent of Police's office, from where they were moved to a holding centre in Raipur for illegal immigrants,” a police officer said.

However, their families alleged that the police detained them illegally late at night despite furnishing all the necessary documents, including voter ID cards, Aadhaar cards and PAN cards.

Reacting to the incident, All India Trinamool Congress Rajya Sabha MP Samirul Islam alleged that it was part of a pattern of harassing Bengali-speaking people on suspicion of being Bangladeshi nationals.

“It has been continuing for years. Now speaking Bengali outside our State seems to be tantamount to having to prove one's citizenship. We should not forget that Bengali is our mother tongue and has been recognised as a classical language by none other than the Union Government of India,” he said on X.

He also expressed hope that the remaining four workers would be released soon.

KPSC scam:
ED takes IAS officer into custody

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) has taken IAS officer Gyanendra Kumar Gangwar and alleged intermediary Basavaraj Kannale into custody for questioning in connection with the ongoing probe into alleged irregularities in the recruitment conducted by the Karnataka Public Service Commission (KPSC). Mr. Gangwar and Mr. Kannale are already in judicial custody at the Bengaluru Central Prison after the State Criminal Investigation Department (CID) arrested them. The ED took custody of the two late on Friday night for further questioning over suspected financial transactions linked to the recruitment scam.

channel MD in excise custody for a day

The Hindu Bureau
KOZHIKODE

The Judicial First Class Magistrate Court I in Wayanad, on Saturday remanded Anto Augustine, managing director of Reporter TV, in the custody of the Excise department for a day.

The legal proceedings stem from an investigation initiated under non-bailable provisions of the Kerala Abkari Act. On Thursday, excise officers conducted searches at Mr. Augustine's ancestral residence in Wayanad, and seized over 60 litres of alcohol, an amount exceeding the statutory permissible limit for personal possession.

Incidentally, the illegal stash was uncovered by a special investigation team (SIT) during a separate raid on the property regarding alleged financial irregularities connected to a proposal to bring footballer Lionel Messi and the Argentina national team to Keralam for a friendly. The SIT had alerted the Kalpetta Excise range, leading to a secondary search, the confiscation of the alcohol, and Mr. Augustine's arrest in Kochi. While the Excise department had initially sought a four-day custody period, the court sanctioned a 24-hour period expiring at 12 p.m. on Sunday.

Source of liquor

Investigators suspect potential procurement links to the neighbouring Union Territory of Mahe, a hub for low-duty liquor, and are probing whether a portion of the foreign-manufactured liquor was illegally imported. Besides, authorities plan to inspect Mr. Augustine's passport to cross-verify his international travel history against the seized spirits.

AAP govt. failed to curb drug menace in Punjab: Delhi CM

A government that keeps giving new deadlines cannot be expected to eradicate drugs, says Rekha Gupta ahead of the BJP flagging off the second 'Nasha Mukta Punjab Yatra' from Fatehgarh Sahib

The Hindu Bureau
CHANDIGARH

Since the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) had assumed power in Punjab in 2022, it had been issuing new deadlines to eradicate the drug menace from the State but had completely failed to keep its word and could not realistically be expected to eradicate drugs at all, Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta said on Saturday.

"When AAP came to power in Punjab, they promised to eliminate drugs from the State within three months. The deadline was extended, first by three months and then by four months, and has now been extended six times. A government that keeps giving new deadlines cannot be expected to eradicate drugs," she said. Ms. Gupta was address-

'Super CM of Punjab'

"The 13-day yatra will become a campaign to free Punjab from this government," Ms. Gupta said. She added that she had come from Delhi to "expose" AAP national convener and former Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal, whom she described as the "super CM of Punjab".

AAP leaders were spending the Punjabis' hard-earned money in other States to serve their (AAP's) political interests, she alleged.

After facing political setbacks in Delhi, Mr. Kejriwal had shifted his focus to Punjab, she said.

RPF official arrested over 'assault' of woman

The Hindu Bureau
HYDERABAD

A Home Guard deputed to the Railway Protection Force (RPF) was arrested and removed from service, after a video shared on social media showed him allegedly slapping a woman and dragging her by the hair for about 200 metres near the Hafeezpet railway station in Hyderabad.

The incident occurred on Friday evening and the accused was identified as Kadiga Anand. He has been in service for the last 14 years.

The video of the incident was recorded by locals.

Taking note of the video, Telangana DGP C.V. Anand, responded on X, describing the conduct as "abominable" and calling for immediate action.

The accused was booked under relevant sections of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita.

'CCTV cameras offline at 828 Odisha police stations'

Satyasundar Barik
BHUBANESWAR

Surveillance at police stations and outposts across Odisha has been affected after 828 CCTV cameras were found to be non-functional, prompting the Odisha police to seek immediate release of funds to restore them and ensure uninterrupted monitoring.

As per the Supreme Court directions, all CCTV cameras installed at police stations and outposts are required to be functional at all times.

The Orissa High Court had expressed concern over non-functional CCTV cameras in the wake of the alleged custodial abuse of an Army officer and the sexual harassment of his fiancée at a police station in Bhubaneswar in 2024. It was alleged that there were no CCTV cameras installed at the Bharatpur police station where the alleged abuse took place.

The Mohan Majhi government assured the HC that it would complete the installation of the CCTV cameras within three months. The State has 645 police stations and 263 outposts.

"As per a report, as on September 17, 2026, a total of 795 CCTV cameras at police stations and 33 cameras at police outposts are reported to be offline," said a letter written by the police to the Home Secretary.

The letter added that "a budgetary amount of ₹76 crore has been surrendered for installation of CCTV Surveillance System in the 2025-26 financial year". The police sought release of the amount through a supplementary budget for payment to Odisha Computer Application Centre. As many as 16,672 CCTV cameras have been installed at police stations and outposts across the State.

Govt. jobs to 1 lakh youth in 6 months, says Adityanath

More than one lakh youth will get government jobs over the next six months, Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath said on Saturday. He was speaking at a function organised in Lucknow to distribute appointment letters to 818 candidates selected for various departmental posts by the UPPSC and UPSSSC. The Chief Minister claimed that the previous Samajwadi Party government appointed someone as chairman of the U.P. Public Service Commission, who was not eligible for the post. PTI

Four held after couple suffers burns at Darjeeling homestay

Four persons were arrested on Saturday in connection with an incident in which a woman tourist suffered severe burn injuries while a barbecue was being prepared at a homestay in Darjeeling district, a senior police officer said. Those arrested include the owner of the homestay, a staffer and the person who allegedly poured kerosene onto the barbecue grill, he said. The woman, identified as Nikita Saha, suffered 60% burns. Her husband also suffered burn injuries while trying to rescue her. PTI

In jail for two years without trial, five accused get bail in Armstrong case

R. Sivaraman
CHENNAI

Five persons accused in the murder of Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) leader K. Armstrong have been granted mandatory bail on the ground that the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) is yet to file a final report while they have been in prison for more than two years without the trial commencing. Sources said almost all those arrested and remanded in connection with the case have now been enlarged on bail.

On the evening of July 5, 2024, Armstrong was hacked to death by a gang while supervising the foundation-laying work for his new house on a narrow street in Venugopalaswamy Nagar, Perambur.

K. Armstrong

Based on a complaint, police registered a case and formed special teams, which arrested the suspects in quick succession. Thirty people, including three women, were cited as accused. Gangsters Nagendran and Sambav Senthil were among them. Nagendran later died of ill health while another accused, Thiruvenkadam, was killed in an encounter. Mr. Senthil and his associate Mottai Krishnan remain absconding.

On September 24, 2025, the Madras High Court quashed the chargesheet filed by police and transferred the investigation to the CBI, citing concerns over the thoroughness and impartiality of the State probe. Meanwhile, more than 15 accused, including Aswathamam, were enlarged on bail.

CBI probe

The CBI took over the case and re-registered it. Five more accused subsequently approached the Principal Sessions Court seeking bail. The defence counsel submitted that the accused had been in judicial custody for more than two years and that the earlier chargesheet had been quashed. He argued that the CBI had not examined any witness for a considerable period after taking over the probe and that continued incarceration violated the accused's right to a speedy investigation and trial.

Aadhaar number. PAN card. Voter ID. Ration card. Sanichari Devi, 63, has packed all of these documents into a polythene bag for the special intensive revision (SIR) hearing at the Government Sarvodaya Bal Vidyalaya, a government school near Mori Gate in Delhi's Chandni Chowk Assembly constituency on September 15.

These were the papers by which the state had recognised her, again and again, as a citizen all these years, she claims. But that afternoon they were not enough.

"First, the official at the hearing asked me to bring a bank passbook for which I had to return home," she says. Home is about two kilometres away in an overcrowded Chandni Chowk locality. "When I came back panting, I was again sent another kilometre to get a photocopy of the documents," she says on this errand alone.

"Tum log hai na padha likha toh bhi nahi bujha raha hai ki ka ka chahiye, hum toh hain hi angootha chaap," (You are all educated; even then you're not telling us clearly what documents are needed. I am unlettered)," she says, distressed by the officials' impatience and their cryptic responses.

For nearly two hours, Devi, who claims her name was on the 2002 electoral roll in Bihar, where she was born, clutches her papers trying to understand the process of staying on India's electoral roll. She is surrounded by 70 to 80 people, all with similar problems.

Devi is a daily-wage earner. Exhausted from walking and distressed from losing a day's wage, she faints in the afternoon sun. Two men catch her before she falls and help her to a chair.

The government school in Chandni Chowk is one of the three locations in this Assembly constituency where SIR hearings are taking place. These hearings are for voters who had notices served to them for anomalies, like name mismatches, and for being unmapped — meaning their names or relatives' names were not found on older SIR rolls.

At every hearing location, 100 to 1,000 people turn up every day with documents to prove that they are eligible to vote. Once they are there, many find that none of their documents match the 11 ID proofs prescribed by the Election Commission of India for the SIR. The exercise, rolled out in 2025 just before the Bihar Assembly election, was intended to clean up voter lists by identifying duplicate entries and removing the names of those who have died, moved from their addresses, or are illegal migrants. But since it was rolled out, and now having covered 30 of India's States and Union Territories, over 13 crore people on the voter list have been removed during the draft stage. This has become the subject of intense public debate.

In India's capital, Delhiites reduced to documents

The scale of deletions has been striking in Delhi.

Of 1.45 crore people who were on the rolls on June 16, 2026, only 97.5 lakh remain. Around 47.6 lakh people have been marked Absent, Shifted, Dead, and Duplicate (ASDD) as reasons for their exclusion at the draft stage. Of the 97.5 lakh on the list, more than one-third on the draft rolls face notices. These will be disposed of by October 29 after they submit their documents either online or at the hearing centres. The final roll will be published on November 4.

Physical, mental stress

At an SIR hearing centre in Rajouri Garden's government boys' school, the queue snakes past five rows of Booth Level Officers (BLOs) and Assistant Electoral Registration Officers (AEROs) seated at desks with laptops. Each family in the line carries a folder of documents collected over decades. Every day, around 500 cases are scheduled for hearing here.

Ram Chandar, 55, from Etah in Uttar Pradesh, has lived in Delhi for 37 years, working at a housekeeping service. He says he has voted during the tenures of Sheila Dikshit and Arvind Kejriwal, and in the last election when Rekha Gupta came to power. But this time, all his family members, including his parents, wife, brother, and sister-in-law, received notices stating that they had failed to provide details of themselves or a relative from the 2002 SIR rolls.

He is among more than 13.79 lakh people who have been served notices in Delhi after being marked "unmapped"; another 19.33 lakh were flagged for "logical discrepancies", including name mismatches and age-related anomalies. Even after submitting his previous voter ID, his identification could not be established.

"They want illiterate people like us to provide such minute details that date back to 2002, while officials themselves are so careless that they sent me a notice for September 14, despite the fact that there was a UPSC and NDA entrance exam at this centre. If they cannot keep an account of a month's calendar, how are we supposed to keep everything in place for years?" he says.

After a three-hour wait, when he climbs onto the stage where officials sit, the BLO takes barely a minute to answer his queries, and sends him back with a list of additional documents to bring.

Most recipients didn't know they could submit their documents online. The website link is available via a QR code on the notice.

Paramjeet Thukral, 55, who has recently moved to her parents' home in Tagore Garden from south Delhi, says she did try to do everything online, but was unsuccessful as the system said she didn't have the right documents. "I had attached everything which was needed," she says.

The confusion

The AERO, Prabhas Kumar, who is attending to queries alone at Devi's centre, says 7,000 notices had been generated at the centre comprising 50 booths of Chandni Chowk and BLOs are on the field to serve these notices to the people. On the day Devi visited his station, he said that none of the people had the required documents. "But we are not turning them away. We are taking whatever they are bringing, from a Class 5 marksheet to a discharge card from the hospital where they were born," Prabhas said, adding that even after maximum consideration, at least 50 people are turned away every day because they do not have a single valid document.

As per the EC's Standard Operating Procedure for the SIR, submitting only Aadhaar as a document is not sufficient.

Digital rights activist Nikhil Pahwa, who was also served an SIR notice, says his experience at a hearing centre in central Delhi raises concerns over consent, communication, and the burden placed on voters.

"Officials directed applicants to write their mobile phone numbers on forms despite these being optional, raising questions about whether voter IDs were being linked to phone numbers without the voters' consent. Also, whether consent was taken for photographing the voters," he says, adding that he plans to file an RTI on the issue. He adds that officials are rude, almost bullying people from underprivileged sections of society.

At Rajouri Garden, an official yells at a woman wearing a salwar suit when she climbs onto the stage to ask when she would be called. She has been waiting for hours. "Get down, or I will lodge an FIR against you," the official says, leaving the woman humiliated enough to leave the hearing.

‘Emissions blame unfair to developing nations’

Independent assessments support part of the Prime Minister’s claim on Paris summit commitments. India’s first Nationally Determined Contribution (NDC) had three quantitative targets. The emissions-intensity and non-fossil capacity goals were both met several years early, and non-fossil capacity reached 52.57% of the total by February 2026. The third target, an additional carbon sink of 2.5-3 billion tonnes of CO₂ equivalent by 2030 through afforestation, is still in progress. India’s April 2026 submission to the UN puts the additional sink at 2.29 billion tonnes between 2005 and 2021, and says the country is on track.

Globally, the UNEP estimates that warming in this century would be 2.3-2.5 degrees Celsius even if all countries’ NDCs are fully implemented, and 2.8 degrees Celsius under current policies. This is short of the Paris goal of keeping warming “well below” 2 degrees Celsius while pursuing 1.5 degrees Celsius. The UNEP’s Limiting Overshoot report, released on September 2, found that warming is set to cross 1.5 degrees Celsius, likely within the next few years, and put the best-case peak at 1.8 degrees Celsius.

The Prime Minister’s remarks follow the August 26 Nepal flash flood, caused by a glacier collapse. Nepal’s Foreign Minister Shisir Khanal had told the media that major emitters, including India, had a historical responsibility to compensate vulnerable nations. He later said neither he nor Nepal’s government had asked India, China, the United States or any other country for compensation.

Over 22 lakh voters have challenged exclusion: EC

Prasenjit Bose, chairperson of the SIR Committee, West Bengal Pradesh Congress Committee, represented by senior advocate Gopal Sankaranarayanan and advocate Neha Rathi, had urged the court to increase the number of tribunals to 42, keeping in mind the nearing municipal polls.

“To further streamline and expedite the disposal of the pending appeals, it is proposed that the number of appellate tribunals in West Bengal may be considered for increase to correspond with the number of parliamentary constituencies in the State, so as to facilitate expeditious disposal of the pending appeals,” the EC said.

“The software developed by the Commission is location-agnostic, which enables judicial officers presiding over the appellate tribunals to conduct hearings and undertake other proceedings from anywhere,” the EC said.

The affidavits were in response to a direction from the court to the EC to segregate the exact number of appeals filed by ousted voters seeking re-inclusion into the electoral roll, and others wanting more voters to be excluded from the roll.

AAP announces 1st list for Gandhinagar poll

Press Trust of India
AHMEDABAD

The Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) on Saturday announced its first list of 23 candidates for the October 11 Gandhinagar Municipal Corporation elections. The party had won one seat and secured 21% votes in the last civic election, its Gujarat unit general secretary Manoj Sorathiya said. The coming election will thus see a three-cornered fight between the ruling BJP, Congress and AAP for the total of 44 seats. “Those in power have sold off the beauty of Gandhinagar,” Mr. Sorathiya said.

Delhi CM, AAP chief served notices amid SIR exercise

EC publishes list of 33.1 lakh electors, flagged for ‘logical discrepancies’ or ‘no mapping’; prominent names include former V-P Dhankhar, former SC judge Justice Lokur, former Union Minister Sibal

Suruchi Kumari
NEW DELHI

Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta and former Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal were among 33.1 lakh electors in the Delhi draft electoral roll for whom notices have been generated, either because of “logical discrepancies” in their voter details or because their details were not mapped to the previous special intensive revision (SIR) exercise.

The Delhi Chief Electoral Officer on Friday published the list of electors flagged for discrepancies. Those on the list will have to get their documents verified to feature in the final roll. Other prominent names in the list include former Vice-President Jagdeep Dhankhar and wife Sudesh Dhankhar, former Supreme Court judge Justice Madan B. Lokur, former Union Ministers Subramanian Swamy and Kapil Sibal, Delhi Minister Parvesh Sahib Singh, and New Delhi MP Bansuri Swaraj. While Congress MP Abhishek Manu Singhvi is also on the list, the slot for the reason his name was flagged was left blank.

flagged for notices in Part Number 123 of the Shalimar Bagh Assembly constituency. The Election Commission’s (EC’s) software flagged her name for an “age gap of less than 15 years between a parent and progeny”. Later, the electoral registration officer of Shalimar Bagh said that after a physical verification of documents at Ms. Gupta’s address, her name has been validated for inclusion in the final roll. “In accordance with the standard operating procedures of the EC, a notice was issued to the elector & physical field verification was conducted by the designated Booth Level Officer,” a press note said.

The system also flagged Justice Lokur’s name, saying the age gap between him and his grandfather was not more than 40 years. Delhi Minister Mr. Singh’s name was flagged for “self-name mismatch”, which means a mismatch between the name given during the current SIR process and the previous roll.

Around 19.3 lakh electors in Delhi have been flagged for such “logical discrepancies”.

‘No mapping’ category Aam Aadmi Party chief Mr. Kejriwal’s name, along with those of his parents, Gobind Ram Kejriwal and Gita Devi, wife Sunita Kejriwal and son Pulkit Kejriwal, has been flagged under the “no mapping” category. The names of Mr. Dhankhar, Mr. Sibal and Mr. Swamy were also flagged in this category.

Another name to figure in this category was that of Ms. Swaraj, the daughter of former Union Minister and Delhi Chief Minister Shishu Swaraj and former Mizoram Governor Swaraj Kaushal. This category covers electors whose details, or those of a close relative, could not be linked to the previous SIR roll during the enumeration exercise.

Electors in the no-mapping category will have to establish their eligibility by submitting documents from the 12 documents prescribed by the EC for the verification process.

A senior election official said prominent leaders and other well-known personalities would not be required to visit hearing centres.

The 33.1 lakh electors who have received notices constitute roughly one-third of the 97.5 lakh included in the draft roll. The verification and disposal of these cases are to be completed by October 29, while the final electoral roll is to be published on November 4.

Civil society group urges Delhi CEO to extend SIR deadline

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

A group of civil society volunteers on Saturday urged the Delhi Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) to extend by at least two months the deadline for claims and objections and the notice phase of the special intensive revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in the national capital, citing the “scale of notices and exclusions”.

A delegation from the Voter Adhikar Manch met Delhi CEO Ashok Kumar and raised concerns over the number of notices issued to voters, alleged wrongful exclusions and the need for greater transparency in the process.

In a statement issued after the meeting, the group said it had urged the Election Commission’s Delhi office to extend the deadline by at least two months, citing the large number of notices and exclusions during the revision exercise.

Mr. Kumar said the authorities would review the ongoing process and manpower requirements and consider extending the deadline if necessary.

The organisation also demanded that the criteria used to identify “logical discrepancies” in voter records be made public, and

It also sought the display of names of deleted voters and those issued notices at all polling stations that notices include details of individual cases. It sought the issuance of notices in Hindi and communication through SMS alerts wherever voters’ phone numbers are available. The CEO promised the delegation that he would consider its suggestions, the statement said.

Welcoming the publication of a list of voters who have been issued notices on Friday, the Manch called for an online search facility enabling voters to check whether they had received a notice by entering their EPIC numbers. The CEO said the proposal would be discussed with the IT team.

The delegation also sought special camps for homeless persons, those affected by demolitions, transgender persons and other marginalised groups to facilitate their participation in the voter-verification process.

The group sought the display of names of deleted voters and those issued notices at all polling stations.

ED attaches equity shares worth ₹42.13 crore in PACL case

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) has provisionally attached equity shares of Industrial Investment Trust Limited, held by N.N. Financial Services Private Limited, in connection with the Pearls Agrotech Corporation Limited (PACL) case. The 29,46,341 shares, currently worth about ₹42.13 crore, have been attached under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act. They were bought for a consideration of ₹30.90 crore.

“The investigation revealed that equity shares of Industrial Investment Trust Limited, held by N.N. Financial Services Private Limited, were financed using funds diverted from PACL, which were originally collected from gullible investors, constituting proceeds of crime,” said the agency on Saturday.

The ED has attached movable and immovable properties worth ₹29,667.76 crore, including assets located in India and abroad, in the case so far.

The ED probe stems from a CBI case, which has filed a chargesheet and a supplementary chargesheet against 33 accused persons. The accused entities and persons operated an illegal collective investment scheme, fraudulently mobilising over ₹48,000 crore from lakhs of investors across India on the pretext of sale and development of agricultural land.

Seven of Odisha family among eight killed as car falls into drain in M.P.

Eight people, including three children and two women, died on Saturday after their car was swept away in a swollen drain in Madhya Pradesh’s Agar Malwa district.

The victims were on their way to visit a temple in Nalkheda town.

According to the police, the incident took place in the early hours on Saturday following heavy overnight rain in Nalkheda.

Agar Malwa Superintendent of Police Dilip Soni told The Hindu that seven of the deceased were from a family in Odisha, who were on their way to visit the Bagalmukhi temple in Nalkheda, while the driver was a local resident from Badod tehsil area. He said that the accident took place just 50 metres from the temple.

“There is a culvert near the temple and the drain under it had been overflowing due to heavy rain. The driver tried to cross it to reach the temple but may have misjudged the situation after which the car lost control and got swept away due to strong currents,” Mr. Soni said, adding that the family had come to Nalkheda after visiting the Mahakaleshwar temple in Ujjain.

The police got information of a submerged car from the residents around 9.30 a.m. after which the bodies were recovered, Mr. Soni said.

In Bhubaneswar, a pall of gloom descended on the family of Banamali Behera who lost his son, two daughters, a son-in-law, and three grandchildren in the accident.

The police officer said that post-mortem examinations have been conducted on all the bodies and those of the victims from Odisha have been dispatched to Bhubaneswar. The police have begun inquest proceedings in the case.

Odisha Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi expressed deep sorrow over the deaths. “The State government has instructed the concerned officials to maintain constant coordination with the Madhya Pradesh government and the local administration regarding the incident,” he said.

Congress slams IIM-Jammu for fining students absent during PM’s birthday event

Peerzada Ashiq
SRINAGAR

The Congress on Saturday criticised the notice issued by Indian Institute of Management-Jammu to impose a fine of ₹500 on students who were absent from the lamp-lighting ceremony held on the campus on Thursday to mark Prime Minister Narendra Modi’s birthday.

“Why should attendance at PM Modi’s birthday celebration be mandatory for students? Is this an academic responsibility at an IIM, or has PM Modi’s publicity been brought on to the campus as a compulsory exercise?” Congress MP and party in-charge of J&K Syed Naseer Hussain said in a post on social media platform X.

Students not present at the ceremony will be fined ₹500 if they failed to submit a reply by Sunday, IIM Jammu said

IIM Jammu had issued a notice to students who did not attend a “mandatory Deepak Lighting Ceremony” held on September 17, Mr. Hussain said.

Students absent at the ceremony would be fined ₹500 if they failed to submit a reply by Sunday, IIM-Jammu has said.

“Educational institutions should nurture independent minds, not compel students to attend political leaders’ celebrations or threaten them with penalties. The BJP’s publicity stunts should be kept out of our premier educational institutions,” Mr. Hussain said.

An IIM-Jammu notice, posted by the Congress leader online, informed students that they had been “marked absent from Deepak Lighting Ceremony on 17/09/2026, despite the event being mandatory”.

“You are hereby required to provide a written explanation stating the reason for your absence from the event. Please note that an exemption from the absence will be considered only on medical grounds, and the same must be supported by an official written note from Sanjeevni specifically recommending bed rest for the concerned period,” the notice said.

IIT-Bombay faculty member booked for abetment of suicide, caste abuse

The Hindu Bureau
MUMBAI

The Mumbai Police on Saturday booked IIT-Bombay faculty member Suryanarayan Dulla, alleging caste abuse and abetment to suicide, a day after a 22-year-old student was found dead in his hostel room.

Sahil Wakode was a second-year B.Tech. student in the Energy Science and Engineering Department. In a statement, IIT-Bombay said he died by suicide after he was allegedly caught using a phone during an examination.

The police filed an FIR on Saturday on a complaint from the student’s father, Chakradhar Wakode. Mr. Dulla, working in the Energy Science Department, was booked under various Sections of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Preven-

Congress candidate sent to judicial custody till Oct. 3

With Nandigram bypoll scheduled for Oct. 6, Pradhan will have little time to campaign; Congress leaders protest as Bengal police defend the arrest as a 'lawful step'; Rahul calls it 'political revenge'

Shrabana Chatterjee
KOLKATA

A court in West Bengal on Saturday re-manded the Congress's Nandigram byelection candidate, Milan Pradhan, in judicial custody till October 3, leaving him with little time to campaign for the October 6 bypoll.

Mr. Pradhan was arrested on Friday in connection with cases registered against him 19 years ago. The police action came within an hour of former Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee extending support to him after her party's candidate, Sanchita Pradhan (De), withdrew her nomination for the byelection.

Congress leaders and workers on Saturday staged a protest march in Kolkata against the arrest of Mr. Pradhan.

The West Bengal Police, in a statement, said the arrest was a lawful step. "Milan Pradhan was arrested in four cases dating back to 2007 during the Nandigram protests. Some of the charges include murder, attempt to murder, abduction with intent to murder, causing disappearance of evidence, house trespass, rioting with arms and deadly weapons," the police said. "Execution of long-pending non-bailable warrants is a standing instruction of the Election Commission of India in respect of all elections/bye-elections. The arrest of Shri Pradhan is a lawful step towards compliance with the same during the course of an ongoing special drive," they said.

The police added that

Mr. Pradhan had been absconding and evading due process of law for almost 19 years.

Leader of the Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi described the developments as "political revenge and murder of democracy". "The BJP has no faith in fair elections — that's why it wants to cling to power sometimes through vote theft, sometimes through stealing governments, and sometimes through stealing parties. They don't want to contest elections; they want to end the electoral fight altogether," Mr. Gandhi said in a social media post.

"Some old cases from the Nandigram protests were still open. Once the new government came, they closed all the cases against their own names, but kept those against Opposition parties open to target us like this," senior Congress leader Suman Roy Choudhuri told The Hindu.

"The police could have called him. He had declared everything in his nomination papers, so there was no attempt to conceal anything. Everyone knows that a false case was registered in 2007," State Congress president Subhankar Sarkar said.

He added that such cases during the Nandigram protests were filed against many people across party lines. "To the people of Nandigram, I say, you may not be able to see Milan Pradhan now, but keep him in your hearts and each one of you become a Milan Pradhan and fight this," Mr. Sarkar said at the protest march.

In quick U-turn, Mamata's Rejinagar candidate back in race after declaring exit

Shiv Sahay Singh
KOLKATA

Adding to the political uncertainty in West Bengal, Rabiul Alam Chowdhury, the candidate of the Trinamool Congress faction led by former Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, on Saturday announced his withdrawal from the Rejinagar Assembly byelection, only to retract his statement less than two hours later.

He said that he had changed his mind and decided to take part in the October 6 byelection as per Ms. Banerjee's wishes.

'Difficult motivation'

Earlier, speaking to media-persons in Murshidabad, Mr. Chowdhury said he was finding it difficult to motivate grassroots workers, who have been facing regular harassment, and was considering withdrawing from the contest.

He added that the new symbol allotted by the Election Commission would prove to be a challenge for the party in the byelection.

Rabiul Alam Chowdhury

The Election Commission has allotted the 'footballer' symbol to Ms. Banerjee's faction of the Trinamool and has assigned it the name 'Mamata All India Trinamool Congress'.

Hours later, Mr. Chowdhury said he was asked by Ms. Banerjee not to withdraw from the contest.

Directions and security

"I will be contesting the bypoll. We are in Didi's party and we cannot do anything outside her wishes. So, following Didi's instructions, I am retaining my candidature," Mr. Chowdhury said.

The former Trinamool MLA said that he had been assured of security by the police after Ms. Banerjee intervened. "Even if only 10 workers stand by me, I will take them along and begin door-to-door campaigning," he added.

New symbols

Meanwhile, the freezing of the symbol and name of the All India Trinamool Congress has led to unexpected circumstances with the Indian Secular Front (ISF) turning out to be an unlikely loser.

The rival faction led by Ritabrata Banerjee has been awarded the name 'Democratic Trinamool Congress' and the symbol of 'envelope'.

The ISF had been awarded the 'envelope' symbol for the West Bengal Assembly election held earlier this year. With the rebel Trinamool faction now getting the symbol, the ISF candidates have been assigned the 'cupboard' symbol.

The byelections in the Rejinagar and Nandigram constituencies in the State are scheduled to be held on October 6.

The counting of votes will be held on October 9.

Mamata in SC over EC freeze on Trinamool party symbol

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The Trinamool Congress faction led by former West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee moved the Supreme Court on Friday against the Election Commission's (EC) decision to freeze the party's symbol.

The petition was filed hours after the poll body on Friday allotted new names and symbols to the two factions led by Mamata Banerjee and Ritabrata Banerjee. On Thursday, the EC had issued an interim order barring the use of the party symbol and name in the Assembly bypolls in Nandigram and Rejinagar in West Bengal.

The plea said the EC did not comprehensively look into the party structure while considering rival claims. It said the EC had banked on the statements of rebel legislators who were facing disqualification proceedings.

The Mamata camp has also filed a separate plea over the delay in disqualification proceedings pending before Assembly Speaker against 10 legislators from the rebel faction.

'BJP trying to intimidate the marginalised through force'

The Hindu Bureau
LUCKNOW

Samajwadi Party (SP) president Akhilesh Yadav on Saturday accused the BJP, which heads the governments both at the Centre and Uttar Pradesh, of threatening marginalised groups through force and coercive tactics. The remarks came a day after party MP Pappu Nishad's vehicle was allegedly damaged in a stone-throwing incident during a Ganesh idol procession.

"By targeting leaders and public representatives of the Lodhi community and the Nishad community, the BJP and the government are trying to intimidate the PDA [pichhde (backward classes), Dalits and alpsankhyak (minorities)] society by force", Mr. Yadav said on X.

System run by Modi prefers 'blind followers' over students who ask questions, says Rahul

Mehul Malpani
BHOPAL

The "system" running the country does not want students as they raise questions; instead, it wants only *andhbhakt*s (blind followers), Leader of the Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi said in an address to students in Indore on Saturday. The Congress refers to staunch BJP followers as *andhbhakt*s.

Speaking at the fifth Chhatron Ki Goonj student interaction programme, Mr. Gandhi alleged that a "system" had captured the country and it was against students and the education system.

He said the alleged "system" was being controlled by a handful of powerful people, but students posed a danger to it.

event in cities like Kota, Pune, Dehradun and Prayagraj, raising students' issues such as paper leak, institutional failure, infrastructural collapse and privatisation.

'System's many layers'

"In Indore, we decided to talk about the 'system' versus students," he said, addressing thousands of youth at the IDA ground. "The system has various layers. At the top, there are six people. It is run by [Prime Minister] Narendra Modi. The tasks of threatening, beating up students with nail studded baton and pellet guns is done by [Union Home Minister] Amit Shahji; he is the enforcer," Mr. Gandhi said, displaying pictures of several BJP and RSS leaders, top bureaucrats, industrialists, and media and film personalities.

The top layer of the alleged system, he said, included Mr. Modi, Mr. Shah, RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat, National Security Adviser Ajit Doval, and industrialists Gautam Adani and Mukesh Ambani.

Mr. Gandhi further said that students posed a danger to the "system" as they questioned why institutions like judiciary, bureaucracy and the Election Commission "are not doing their jobs properly".

"This is why the 'system' does not want students. It wants *andhbhakt*s who are anti-students. It prepares and promotes *andhbhakt*s. While students are curious, the *andhbhakt*s are delusional and live in their own world... While students are humble and listen to others, the *andhbhakt*s are filled with arrogance. While students are fearless, *andhbhakt*s are co-workers. While students respect women, the *andhbhakt*s are patriarchal and attack women..." he said.

During the event, participants raised issues faced in Madhya Pradesh, including delayed recruitment to government jobs, holding of vacancies due to the sub-judice OBC reservation hike case and delay in holding nursing exams.

The family of Arpit Jai, an 18-year-old student from Dewas who died in the Delhi building collapse earlier this month, also met Mr. Gandhi on the stage and alleged that their son had died due to the "system's failure".

While concluding his address, Mr. Gandhi said students were the future of India. "We want an India of students, not of *andhbhakt*s," he asserted.

Chirag Paswan to begin youth outreach campaign this month

Amit Bhelari
PATNA

Union Minister and Lok Janshakti Party (Ram Vilas) leader Chirag Paswan will launch a Gen Z outreach campaign called Youth Bole To later this month, with party insiders describing it as an attempt to counter Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's ongoing Chhatron Ki Goonj events, in which the Leader of the Opposition in Lok Sabha raises issues pertaining to the youth.

Mr. Paswan's campaign will begin in Patna on September 24, party's Bihar unit president, Surendra Vivek, announced on Saturday. "...At this event, Chirag Paswanji will engage in direct dialogue with the new generation of Bihar, particularly Gen Z," Mr. Vivek said.

Party insiders said Mr. Paswan is trying to make an impact in the 2027 Assembly polls in Uttar Pradesh, where his party has decided to contest all 403 seats. After Patna, the campaign heads to Uttar Pradesh, with the next event set to be held in Prayagraj on September 27.

Cong. leader says allegations over Keralam CM's marriage seek to destabilise the govt.

The Hindu Bureau
KOCHI

Congress spokesperson Raju P. Nair on Saturday said that he suspected a conspiracy to destabilise the V.D. Satheesan-led Keralam government behind the allegations that the Chief Minister had entered into a second marriage while his existing marriage was subsisting.

He was speaking to the media after appearing before the police to record his statement in the case registered against Reporter TV managing director Anto Augustine and two identifiable persons.

'Forged documents'

Mr. Nair said he was suspicious of the context in which Mr. Augustine made the revelation that two people had approached him with documents of Mr. Satheesan's second marriage, which were later found to be fabricated.

Anto Augustine made the revelation amid corruption probe against him, says Congress leader

"Mr. Augustine made the revelation even as a SIT is probing the corruption allegations over the failed bid to bring the Lionel Messi-led Argentine football team to Kochi. He says he was convinced that the documents presented to him on the second wedding were forged. If so, he should have reported the matter to the police. I doubt if he made all the revelations as a defence against the probe and was attempting to blackmail the government," Mr. Nair said.

"I have deposed before the police that I doubt if the incident in the revelation really happened or if the whole story was fabricated... as part of a pressure tactic. It has to be probed which force was behind the suspected conspiracy," he said.

The FIR registered by the Cybercrime Police, Thiruvananthapuram city, recently, based on Mr. Nair's complaint was then handed over to the Kalamassery police, considering that the alleged place of occurrence of the incident mentioned by Mr. Augustine was Kalamassery.

The FIR invokes Sections 336(4) (forgery intended to harm reputation), 337 (forgery of a public record or register), 61(2) (criminal conspiracy), 356(3) (defamation), 340(2) (using a forged document as genuine) and 339 (possession of a forged public document, knowing it to be forged) of the BNS.

Assam salutes cultural icon on his 1st death anniversary

Assam on Saturday paid homage to cultural icon Zubeen Garg on his first death anniversary by organising cultural and spiritual programmes. His songs reverberated across the State as thousands thronged ‘Zubeen Kshetra’, the memorial to him on the outskirts of Guwahati. Garg’s wife, Garima Saikia Garg, participated in a remembrance event organised by a school in Guwahati’s Noonmati area. The BJP, which rules Assam with two regional allies, commemorated the day by organising blood donation camps across the State. Garg died on September 19, 2025 while swimming in the sea off Singapore, where he was scheduled to perform.

Maharashtra FDA seizes gutka worth ₹1.13 cr; four nabbed

The Maharashtra Food and Drugs Administration (FDA) on Saturday said it has seized prohibited gutka worth ₹1.13 crore and arrested four persons, including driver and owner, and had asked the police if the stringent MCOCA can be slapped against the accused. According to the FDA, action was initiated on Friday to trace a truck transporting gutka. The truck was reportedly coming from M.P. towards Bhiwandi in Thane. However, when it was found that the truck had changed its planned route, FDA teams were deployed on the possible routes. The truck was intercepted and various brands of pan masala and gutka were seized, an official said.

Nepal disaster impact: HC initiates PIL on climate justice

The High Court of Sikkim has initiated a suo motu public interest litigation petition on climate justice after “taking note of the severe hardship and impact of the recent flash floods in Nepal”. In an order on September 17, a Bench comprising Chief Justice A. Muhamed Mustaque and Justice Bhaskar Raj Pradhan made the Railway Ministry, and National Highways and Infrastructure Development Corporation Limited, along with the Sikkim State Disaster Management Authority and the State Power Department, respondents in the PIL. The court issued notices to these four authorities. The court said the PIL was initiated after it noted the impact of the disaster in Nepal, whose Himalayan landscape is similar to Sikkim’s.

14 judges appointed to four High Courts across country

As many as 14 judges were on Saturday appointed to four High Courts. According to notifications from the Law Ministry, two judges and five additional judges have been appointed to the Delhi High Court while one judge has been appointed to the Jammu and Kashmir and Ladakh High Court. Three judges have been appointed to the Jharkhand High Court and three additional judges to the Karnataka High Court. Judicial officers and advocates are appointed as judges of High Courts. Additional judges are usually appointed for a period of two years before being elevated as judges.

Prohibition is no solution to alcoholism: top court

Despite ban on liquor, Gujarat has witnessed several hooch tragedies, says SC Bench; total ban only succeeds in sending liquor trade underground, increasing prevalence of unregulated, lethal brews

Krishnadas Rajagopal
NEW DELHI

Forced temperance is no solution to alcoholism, the Supreme Court has observed in a judgment, while pointing to the consistent failure of Gujarat, a ‘dry State’ with a strict prohibition policy, in preventing hooch tragedies and the deaths of hundreds of people.

“The State of Gujarat has witnessed at least 10 major mass hooch tragedies since the State’s formation, and Independence, claiming the lives of over 600 people. Despite the State of Gujarat maintaining a strict prohibition policy since its creation in 1960, hooch tragedies (laththa laced with methanol) have rapidly led to severe public health crises,” Justice J.B. Pardiwala, heading a Division Bench, said.

A total ban on alcohol only succeeds in sending the liquor trade underground, increasing the prevalence of unregulated, lethal brews, the court said.

“The recent hooch tragedies at Bhavnagar, Gujarat, and Sagar, Madhya Pradesh, which claimed around 13 and 15 lives, respectively, are again a reminder for the authorities to wake up and act,” Justice Pardiwala said in the judgment delivered on Friday.

The court listed five “evils” associated with prohibition – loss of revenue on taxes, expenditure on implementation and good money spent, corruption in police and excise, illegal distilling, and the resultant drug menace.

The court was hearing a challenge to Rules 18A and 18B of the Maharashtra Poisons Rules, which restrict the purchase of methanol, and mandate the addition of bitterant and colourant to methanol before sale to a non-drug manufacturer. The Rules had come into force in the aftermath of the deaths of 93 out of a total of 250 persons who consumed spurious liquor purchased at Chhaya Bar in Mumbai in 1991. It was later found that they had consumed methanol, which was no less than poison.

FTAs are opening new employment avenues for youth, says Modi

Press Trust of India
NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday said the government was working on multiple fronts to expand employment opportunities for the youth, citing Free Trade Agreements (FTAs), skilling initiatives and a ₹1 lakh crore employment incentive scheme aimed at bringing two crore young people into the formal workforce.

Addressing a ‘Rozgar Mela’ (jobs fair) virtually, Mr. Modi also said that the talent and skills of India’s youth have won the trust of the entire world, which has great expectations from Indian innovators, entrepreneurs, and the country’s youthful strength.

“India signed 40 Free Trade Agreements. These FTAs are opening new doors of possibilities for our youth. Such trade agreements pave the way for new partnerships for our entrepreneurs, open paths to new markets, and create new possibilities in careers for our youth,” Mr. Modi said.

At the function, he distributed more than 51,000 appointment letters virtually to newly selected youth, who will join various government departments and organisations.

Referring to the just-concluded BRICS Summit, Mr. Modi said India’s effort has been to ensure that BRICS cooperation does not remain limited to governments alone.

“Our entrepreneurs, our farmers, our women, our youth – everyone should become an active partner in this partnership,” he said.

Former V-P Hamid Ansari remembers ‘one-man institution’ A.G. Noorani

Ziya Us Salam
NEW DELHI

Renowned columnist and legal expert A.G. Noorani was remembered at a memorial lecture at the India Islamic Cultural Centre in New Delhi on Friday, where former Vice-President M. Hamid Ansari described the former The Hindu and Frontline columnist as a “polymath” and “one-man institution”.

Calling Noorani as one of the sharpest minds on constitutional law, Mr. Ansari said he had his own distinctive way of working. Although he was not a grassroots reporter, Noorani understood the pulse of the nation, he said.

The Noorani Records, a publication of The Hindu Group containing some of the best writings of the late columnist, was also released to mark the occasion by Mr. Ansari in the presence of former Union Minister Salman Khurshid. Noorani wrote for The Hindu and Frontline for nearly four decades.

In his speech titled “Remembering a Polymath: The Life and Times of Abdul Ghafoor Noorani”, Mr. Ansari said Noorani’s life and work reflected an unwavering commitment to justice, civil liberties, minority rights, secularism and constitutional governance. Recalling various facets of his personality, Mr. Ansari said he was well respected among lawyers in the Bombay High Court and the Supreme Court.

Dignitaries at the third Noorani Memorial Lecture held at the India Islamic Cultural Centre in New Delhi on Friday. ZIYA US SALAM

On issues ranging from constitutional amendments and the Anti-Defection Bill more than 30 years ago, to the more recent Citizenship (Amendment) Act, Noorani wrote with “rare perspicacity”, he said. He

After Sagar tragedy, M.P. Police uncover fake liquor racket

Mehul Malpani
BHOPAL

After at least 20 people died earlier this month in a hooch tragedy in Madhya Pradesh’s Sagar district, the police have uncovered a State-wide counterfeit liquor manufacturing cartel with links to Delhi, officials told The Hindu on Saturday.

According to officials, 14 people have been arrested over the previous two days. Among them was the owner of a chemical company in Delhi, who is accused of supplying industrial spirit to those involved in manufacturing counterfeit liquor.

Investigating the first information reports (FIRs) filed in connection with the tragedy that affected villages in the Banda and Shahgarh tehsils, the police have added 22 more people as accused, bringing the total number of accused in the cases to 52. Of these, 37 people have been arrested so far across various parts of the State, including Sagar, Morena, and Gwalior, officials said.

The police seized 900 bottles filled with counterfeit liquor, a machine used to seal bottles during raids

Police Anurag Sujania said the police also seized several items used in the manufacturing process of counterfeit liquor. These included 11,050 empty bottles, 900 bottles filled with such liquor, four dyes used to print brand labels, a machine used to seal liquor bottles, and large amounts of packaging raw materials. These items were seized during various raids.

The latest arrests include those accused of manufacturing the liquor and arranging raw materials.

Two of the prime accused, Manish Lodhi and Sidhharth Kushwaha, both owners of government-licensed liquor shops and accused of supplying spurious liquor through their shops, continue to remain absconding. Mr. Sujania said various teams were working to nab the remaining accused.

Experts warn of devastating El Niño impacts on India

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

As many as 188 of India’s scientists and ecologists jointly published an appeal to fellow researchers and field practitioners to prepare for the effects of El Niño – a global weather phenomenon that dampens the monsoon and leads to extreme hot and dry conditions in the subcontinent.

In the Pacific Ocean where El Niño originates, temperatures have steadily risen above the 0.5 degree Celsius threshold, reaching 2.6 degree Celsius in August.

Projections report possible anomalies of up to 4 degrees Celsius, which is higher than at any time in the past 1,000 years, based on reconstructions from coral cores, they said.

El Niño started in May and its main effects are expected to be felt in the northern hemisphere (including India) from November onwards into the next year, they said, suggesting a ‘Super’ El Niño. Over the coming months, the signatories warned, India’s natural systems are likely to experience a range of potentially devastating impacts as a result of El Niño.

“These include widespread bleaching and mortality of coral, an increase in wildfires, and the death of large rainforest trees. With a high probability of drought and extreme heat conditions, this year’s El Niño is likely to be catastrophic for India’s farmers, fishers and shepherds as well. In addition though, more subtle impacts on India’s nature – including delayed fruit production or changes in animal behaviour – could be equally important, but may be much less visible unless you are specifically looking for them,” they said.

The “Call to Action” urges scientists to take advantage of the warning signs and mobilise as a community to document and study the impact of this event on India’s nature, arguing that better science and documentation are essential to preparing India for a climate resilient future.

Jayashree Ratnam, scientist, National Centre for Biological Science, said in a release: “The coming year will be a litmus test for tropical forests and trees in India. Huge forest trees may appear indestructible, but in the Western Ghats, many of them are already near the limit of the heat they can tolerate. Large trees are especially susceptible to extended droughts. Trees in cities are also vulnerable because of the urban ‘heat island’ effect. It is vital to understand how the coming El Niño will impact trees and other plants – as these are the foundations on which all other life depends.”

‘Scary projections’

“I have witnessed the devastating impacts of El Niño on India’s coral reefs before, and it is heart-breaking. Coral reefs can be remarkably resilient but they need at least a decade after every major die-back of coral to show significant recovery. The last major El Niño was in 2024, and barely two years after that event, the projected scale and intensity of the heat wave that is currently headed our way is truly scary,” said Rohan Arthur, marine biologist, Nature Conservation Foundation.

Roxy Mathew Koll, climate scientist, Indian Institute of Tropical Meteorology, also said India’s monsoon season is closing with a rainfall deficit, but the impacts may not end there. “They can creep into the seasons ahead and cascade through depleted soil moisture and water storage, land and marine heatwaves, stressed crops and livelihoods, forest fires, coral bleaching and less visible ecological changes. We must document these changes as they unfold, but also safeguard the ecosystems that remain and reduce the pressures already weakening them,” he said.

AI prices are falling but firms are spending more

Growing use of open-weight models is changing the economics; instead of relying entirely on a frontier model, firms can use different models for different tasks.; smaller or open-weight models can handle some workloads at a lower cost while more expensive frontier models can be used for tasks that require greater capability; cheaper tokens are encouraging widespread usage of AI

EXPLAINER

Balasubramanyam C.P.
CHENNAI

Artificial intelligence (AI) is turning sharply cheaper to run on a per-token basis but the amount firms are spending on the same is rising as they move from experiments and chatbots to more complex, multi-step applications.

At a briefing, Coforge management said over the previous seven months, the unit cost of tokens to deliver the same level of AI had fallen about 100-fold while token consumption surged about 8,000-fold.

Coforge also said open-weight models accounted for about 35% of token use on the platforms it was observing compared with about 11-12% in early 2025.

There are broadly two types of models. Closed or proprietary models such as OpenAI's GPT, Anthropic's Claude and Google's Gemini, keep trained parameters under the developer's control and are typically accessed through a hosted service or API.

Open-weight models such as Meta's Llama make trained parameters available for organisations to download and run themselves subject to the model's licence. Open-weight need not necessarily mean fully open-source. Their training data, training process and other components may be undisclosed.

Coforge also said the right way to assess AI economics was "cost per unit task" viz. the cost incurred to finish a defined piece of work and value it creates.

Turning cheaper?
Stanford's 2025 AI Index, an annual report tracking major developments and trends in AI, found the cost of querying a model with GPT-3.5-level performance on a standard AI knowledge and reasoning benchmark fell from $20 per million tokens in November 2022 to $0.07 per million tokens by October 2024, a reduction of more than 280 times in about 18 months. Drawing on an analysis by Epoch AI, it found LLM inference prices had fallen between nine and 900 times per year depending on the task.

The OECD (Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development) found a similar trend and said its July analysis estimated quality-adjusted prices for text-to-text AI models fell by almost 80% between January 2024 and April 2026.

The nature of the work being given to AI is also changing . A chatbot might receive a question, process it and return an answer. An AI agent can break a task into several steps, reason, call external tools/systems, inspect the results, revise approach and continue till the task is done. Each additional step can involve more model calls/tokens.

Cost-benefit: Cheaper models are making more applications viable while agents are making individual applications more intensive. AFP

The OECD notes AI agents consume substantially more tokens per task and can raise model-use intensity by order of magnitude. As a result, falling prices/token do not translate into lower costs for complex AI applications.

Gartner described this as the "Inference Paradox". Its August 2026 analysis says routing a task to an agentic reasoning model can increase provider inference costs by at least five times compared with a basic chatbot interaction, and often by much more as complexity rises. Gartner sees inference cost per agentic workflow to rise over fivefold through 2028.

Changing the equation
A 2026 working paper by researchers from the University of Michigan, Stanford University, All Hands AI, Google DeepMind, Microsoft AI and MIT found agentic coding tasks consumed about 1,000 times more tokens than the code-reasoning and code-chat tasks used for comparison. It also found runs of the same task could differ by as much as 30 times in total token consumption.

This is showing up in enterprise spending, McKinsey's May 2026 Enterprise AI FinOps survey, covering 75 respondents across five industries, found 93% reported exceeding AI budgets. McKinsey also cited Menlo Ventures data showing enterprise spending on large language models roughly tripled over the 12 months to the end of 2025.

The growing use of open-weight models is changing the economics. Instead of relying entirely on a frontier model, firms can use different models for different tasks. Smaller or open-weight models can handle some workloads at lower cost while more expensive frontier models can be used for tasks that require greater capability.

Coforge said its clients were increasingly moving towards a mix of models. It also identified seven billion tokens of consumption as a "tipping point" in its experience at which clients start considering whether to consume and operate more of the AI stack themselves rather than simply subscribe to a frontier model. It said that threshold could fall as open-weight and sovereign AI develop further. OECD research, also shows competition and alternative models contributed to falling AI prices.

Measuring AI costs
For firms, a useful measure is economics of the complete task like model calls, tokens, computing resources and human oversight needed to produce a result set against the value of that result.

Gartner's research also points towards measuring token use against business value and economics of the overall workflow rather than treating token prices as proxy for AI. The result is a rapidly changing cost structure, like cheaper models are making more applications viable while agents are making individual applications more computationally intensive.

NTPC drops ₹413 cr. BESS deal as contractor fails on obligations

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

State-owned power producer NTPC Ltd. said it terminated the contract awarded to GR Infraprojects Ltd. (GRIL) for building the 400 Megawatt-hour (MWh) battery energy storage system (BESS) project at its Mouda Super Thermal Power Station (Maharashtra) with immediate effect citing the latter's inability to meet contractual obligations and meet required project progress.

The project - with a contract value of ₹413.37 crore - awarded in March- was scheduled to be completed in 15 months. Explaining the cause for terminating the contract, NTPC stated, "The project witnessed significant delay in critical activities. A contractual notice was issued to GRIL calling for immediate corrective action, but GRIL failed to undertake the required remedial measures." NTPC added it encashed about ₹91 crore from bank guarantees.

MSEDCL uses AI, ML to detect power theft

Maharashtra State Electricity Distribution Company Ltd. (MSEDCL) said it cracked down on power theft across the State by leveraging Artificial Intelligence (AI) 'Super Intelligence' module.

Combining state-wide physical inspections by 190 "flying squads" with AI-driven predictive analysis, MSEDCL said it exposed 27,964 instances of power theft worth ₹66.28 crore in 3 months. Criminal cases were registered in 289 instances. MSEDCL said it adopted AI and Machine Learning (ML) to predict power theft accurately.

Saudi Arabia and the UAE are planning about $1 billion spend on pipelines, storage units, oil terminals and infrastructure to provide alternative routes for moving crude and petroleum products to international markets, CMD Atul Gupta told reporters.

CWC chief flags 'malpractices' in phytosanitary tag

Balasubramanyam C.P.
CHENNAI

Central Warehousing Corporation (CWC) MD Santosh Sinha raised concerns over what he described as "malpractices" in phytosanitary certification at ports while declining to name the entities involved.

Speaking to reporters on the sidelines of an event, Mr. Sinha was asked about his reference to malpractices in certification.

He said there had been "a certain result which was not to our liking" but did not elaborate on the incident or identify any port, agency or official.

Mr. Sinha raised the issue while explaining CWC's plans to expand its role beyond conventional warehousing and into integrated logistics for agricultural exports. He cited the rejection of Indian rice at Chinese ports and mango exports by Japan as examples of the challenges Indian exporters could face when consignments fail to meet norms in destination markets.

Asked how CWC could address the issue, Mr. Sinha said: "We have the technical expertise with us."

He said CWC was also upgrading its technical expertise, pointing to his experience in preserving food commodities. CWC currently stores about 50-60 lakh tonne foodgrains and, according to Mr. Sinha, less than 0.5% is lost during storage.

Phytosanitary norms
Mr. Sinha said the issue of export rejection was closely linked to phytosanitary requirements.

Santosh Sinha

He said India would encounter more such challenges as exports rise under free trade agreements.

"This is actually the sign of a growing economy. Because you are now going in for free trade agreements, you will start exporting, you will encounter challenges, you will have to meet them," he said.

In his address, Mr. Sinha said CWC could add a layer of phytosanitary treatment and preservation to the export supply chain to help ensure agricultural produce was not rejected at destination ports.

CWC is seeking to expand its role in agricultural logistics by bringing together storage, preservation, grading, sorting, treatment, cold storage and transportation with connectivity to ports.

CWC was targeting capital expenditure of about ₹1,000 crore this year, similar to the previous year, Mr. Sinha said.

Parallely, CWC was planning its first hyperloop freight trial at its CFS Logistics Park at JNPT, Mumbai, with a ₹23-crore order placed with IIT Madras-incubated TuTr Hyperloop.

India's Quimcy Dsouza could not put it past Indonesian Sumaya despite giving her all in a gruelling three-game teqball women's singles semifinal on Saturday but remained in contention for a bronze medal at the Asian Games in Nagoya. Quimcy let slip the early advantage to go down 12-7, 9-12, 7-12.

Missed Jaspal sir a lot: Manu after an emotional opening ceremony

IOA

Manu Bhaker said she missed her late coach Jaspal Rana during the Asian Games opening ceremony, making an already special occasion an emotional one as she carried the Indian flag. "Missed Jaspal sir a lot today; he was a flag-bearer at the Asian Games. It was indeed an emotional day without his presence by my side".

THE PRIORITY

Let's focus on giving our best instead of complaining: Manu

Manu Bhaker urged Indian athletes to not waste their energy in pointing out organisational chaos that has marred the Asiad build-up and instead focus on giving their best. "We've worked hard to be here... medal may come or not, that is another story, but we must give our best." The shooting competition begins on Sunday.

ON THE PROWL

We have to go all out and be raging tigers on the court, says Chirag

We want to win a medal. Last time we won (the men's team) silver and were so close to winning gold. We were leading 2-0 against China. It's a new tournament. Whatever happened last time is done and dusted. We have to go all out and be raging tigers on the court — Chirag Shetty, right, India doubles badminton star.

Games with a Heart. The Aichi-Nagoya Asian Games opening ceremony left no one in doubt on what the city and the organisers were aiming at at the Mizuho Park Athletics Stadium here on Saturday, the heart in all its myriad symbolism pervading every aspect of the event.

Throughout the approximately 110-minute presentation, the repeated emphasis on heart, unity and oneness was unmissable, right from the heart-shaped, inclined stage in the middle of the field to the placards carrying the teams' names during the athletes parade.

Even the outfits for performers accompanying violinist and composer Taro Hakase during his recital were heart-shaped, as were the 'angel drones' dressed up in flowing fabric, invoking the diversity and solidarity of Asian countries.

"This giant heart, being born from a fusion of diverse artists, performers, visuals, stage mechanisms, and systems, is sure to become a message originating in Aichi-Nagoya that spreads to Asia and even to the entire world. People around the globe will relate to and connect with each other through joy and friendship," chief creative director Yukihiko Tsutsumi said in a statement.

He didn't need to spell it out. Everything in front of the packed stands of the completely rebuilt, rechristened 35,000 capacity Paloma Mizuho Stadium that was formally opened only in April made it amply clear that the city was keen on showcasing itself as a centre for hospitality, culture and performing arts, the opening ceremony's design concept itself titled 'Harmonic Heart Beat'.

Even the cauldron that was lit at the end of the ceremony was heart-shaped to depict one Asia, one heart. Hammer throw legend Shigenobu Murofushi, accompanied by his Olympic champion son Koji Murofushi, did the honours.

Host Japan's entry during the parade of nations expectedly drew the loudest cheers, matched only by the welcome for the royal family, with Emperor Naruhito formally declaring the Games open.

Earlier, the pre-show that started at 4 p.m. included performances by artists from the Shigo Bonote Preservation Society and the INI Music Group.

With the Nagoya Castle at its centre, the 'Heart Beat of Tradition' had performances by kabuki artists before the past made way to the present and future, the inevitability of Aichi-Nagoya's industrial might too big to be ignored even in the midst of all the heart on display. But even there, the display made references to the historical origins of the city's manufacturing prowess

The extent of technology integration with everyday life meant many of the songs used during the ceremony were created with AI. But the messaging was plain — beyond the heavy industry that it is known for and the mechanical excellence it prides on, Nagoya's ambitions were now bigger, embracing its historical past as well as its softer side to attract more people than just the hard-nosed businessmen.

Kit goof-up sees Pawan replacing Tajinderpal as India's flag-bearer

Uthra Ganesan

Two-time Asian Games defending champion Tajinderpal Singh Toor was replaced as India's flag-bearer by kabaddi star Pawan Sehrawat since the shot putter didn't have his ceremonial kit. Manu Bhaker was the other flag-bearer.

The reasons for the mix-up, however, are not clear. Tajinderpal, who was part of the Indian contingent that left early to train and acclimatise at the Tsukuba University, had apparently forgotten to pack it in his kit before departure.

It was later known that the Athletics Federation of India had failed to pick up the ceremonial kits from the Indian Olympic Association.

Sources said the AFI was unaware of the entire goof-up until Tajinderpal decided to get his outfit ready, even though it had acknowledged and appreciated the IOA's decision to name him for the role.

Tajinderpal, too, posted a video thanking the IOA for the honour. In fact, the entire Indian athletics squad missed out on the opening ceremony on Saturday.

Either way, with no time for the kit to reach Tajinderpal despite the best efforts, the gentle giant was forced to pull out of what would have been the highlight of an illustrious career.

Sports Ministry wants IPL owners to invest in HIL and other leagues

Even as rumours of a Hockey India (HI) Executive Board meeting sans president Dilip Tirkey on Friday made rounds sparking questions of legality and conspiracy theories, the Sports Ministry is known to have made it clear that it would brook no violations while ensuring that the federation and the beleaguered Hockey India League continued without a hitch. Sources in the know revealed that the ministry was looking at existing Indian Premier League owners and franchises to get involved in the HIL as well to ensure sustainability and success. The recent good performance by the Indian women's hockey team, with a large part of the credit going to the WHIL, has also impressed the ministry enough to get involved if necessary.

Interestingly, JSW — co-owner of IPL side Delhi Capitals — already has both men's and women's teams in the HIL, making it clear that the idea is not as far-fetched as it might seem. The ministry, in fact, is keen on the IPL owners getting involved in other leagues as well, including the Pro Kabaddi League and the Prime Volleyball League among others.

"We are also aware of the potential for a sport and refuse to believe anyone who says hockey is a loss-making proposition. It might reflect on their shortcomings, not the sport's. The IPL owners have been positive in their responses. The HIL will happen and will continue," ministry sources declared.

Asked about the recent administrative tussles within the federation, officials simply said, "everything will be sorted (out). Neither (the) HIL nor HI is going anywhere."

The meeting on Friday, meanwhile, under the acting chairmanship of Tapan Das, announced holding the HI elections on November 7. It remains to be seen how things pan out in the coming days.

Ministry taps into diaspora to tide over issues faced by the athletes

The Indian government has tapped into the small but important Indian diaspora to tide over the accommodation and food issues for the country's athletes at the Aichi-Nagoya Asian Games.

With continued shortage of places to stay and little help from the organisers, the Indian officials have decided to make their own arrangements to ease athletes' concerns.

Coordination Sports Minister Mansukh Mandaviya landed in the city on Friday morning and sources said he had been coordinating with the chef de mission and other IOA members here.

The Indian management has created a three-layer support system for the athletes, starting with two members at the airport to guide and help them through the formalities and transportation, followed by three more at the Welcome Centre for smooth transition. With just 2,000 Indians in Nagoya, officials have also identified and confirmed 10-12 homes so far to accommodate athletes as a last resort.

Defending champion India will look to continue its dominant run against Bangladesh in the Asian Games women's cricket semifinal here on Sunday.

The Women in Blue hardly broke a sweat as they began their title defence with a facile eight-wicket win over host Japan, chasing down the target of 58 with 15 overs to spare on Friday.

Bangladesh advanced to the semifinal on the basis of its higher ICC ranking after the quarterfinal against China was abandoned due to a wet outfield.

India has dominated the head-to-head record, winning the last nine meetings, including a 40-run victory over Bangladesh in the semifinal of the Asia Cup last week.

Match starts at 10.30 a.m. IST.

In pursuit of salt and survival

Thousands of workers in Prakasam's coastal mandals depend on salt production, enduring long hours in brine and intense heat; an extended dry season has prolonged salt production this year, but overproduction has pushed down prices, leaving workers vulnerable to losses and an uncertain livelihood

Kommuri Srinivas

Before the sun rises over the Bay of Bengal, the salt pans near Ongole in Prakasam district of Andhra Pradesh are already stirring. In the dim light, workers walk toward the shimmering white fields to begin another day of labour – work that leaves an indelible mark on their bodies and lives. Behind the glittering mounds of salt lies a world shaped by sweat, uncertainty, and an unending struggle for survival.

Thousands of workers in the coastal mandals of Kothapatnam, Naguluppapadu, Chinna Ganjam, Singarayakonda and Vetapalem depend on salt production for their livelihood. The salt season begins in mid-December, coinciding with the festive period leading up to Sankranti, and continues till the rains in July. However, this year, the El Niño has extended the dry season, and salt production continues. Workers repair mud bunds, pump concentrated brine into the pans and, under the scorching sun, scrape salt crystals from the surface by hand or with simple wooden tools. In remote salt fields without proper roads, they carry the harvested salt on their heads and pile it along the bunds.

The work is gruelling. Spending long hours in brine and intense heat exposes workers to skin ailments, eye irritation, and joint pain. Sunlight reflected off the white crystals places additional strain on their eyes.

This harsh occupation also affects family life. For some families, finding suitable marriage alliances for their sons outside villages where salt farming is the main occupation is usually very difficult.

Every season is a gamble. An unexpected spell of rain can wash away months of hard work, while falling salt prices can wipe out the meagre incomes of workers, as in this season. While the monsoon has made its presence felt in most districts of coastal Andhra, Prakasam remains dry. The salt prices have fallen because of overproduction.

In a normal year, once the monsoon arrives, a hush settles over the salt pans, and these salt workers turn to government employment schemes, fishing, and other temporary jobs to make ends meet.

Yet, with every new season, they return to the salt pans. Their footprints disappear beneath the crystals, but their struggle remains etched across the landscape – a reminder that behind every gleaming mound of salt is a life built on labour, hope and resilience.

Back-breaking labour: Workers move between the salt pans as they begin another day; the work involves long hours in intense heat and brine.
